Yahoo started its web hosting division since 2002. With their huge popularity on the internet and with the help of their search engine division, it easily became one of the largest web hosting companies on the internet today. The company's success in choosing the right web hosting plans and brand awareness enable them to become one of the premier choices for hosting for new clients. Their web hosting caters more to the newer internet crowd than advanced web hosting companies since their packages are weaker than most web hosting companies in terms of features and usability.
